Hi there! So what is your general feeling towards Republicans? user1

Unfortunately They are not the part of that used to be. I think they're quite hypocritical especially recently with a right to life issues and the gun control issues. user2

user2

Are you feeling similar?

flow and SAY they're so moral to appeal to a wider audience. user1 It's really just all a big GAME they > play. user1

> user1

fathers.

user1

user1

user1

user1

I feel that they just go with the

I feel that they're only going after 30% of the US population. They tend to yell loudly for those who still like Trump. Currently 70% of people think abortion should be kept legal as well as 70% of people believe that there should be more gun control.

user2

up losing their America user2 I feel that they are going after MUCH MORE than 30%.

unfortunately most Americans end

I do agree that it's a game user1 I was in New York City this past weekend and saw Strawberry Fields Where the John Lennon memorial is. He was killed in 1980 by a gun man. Here it is all these vears later and this type of ours is America is not what it was far away from the original

FOUNDED to be, anymore. We are intended practices of our founding occurring and is actually getting worse due to the types of guns being used. user2 Oh I know it is!! I don't think our founding fathers could quite understand what life would be like now things are not as it was others years ago. Just like people who follow things biblically. Again that's another circumstance or things have changed in the last 2000 years user2 Perhaps our state legislators should take a much more active role..... I think Republicans go after those who are religious. They think the a woman.

user2

Ross

user2

rights of a fetus away the rights of

How do you feel about the economy?

I honestly don't agree with state Right. We are the United States another all of our laws should be the same state to state. I think there are different issues in certain states however we are all Americans and survive by the same

Well the gun control issue bothers me WAY more....

Same rules user2 How do you feel in regards to the way Democrats are handling the economic changes and needs across the country? user1

I think our economy is pretty strong. I think that businesses have more control over it then people blame the president forecast prices

user2

does the president. Just like when

I honestly just wish that the Republicans would be a more modern party and look to the future than to the past user2 completely collapse within the next I AGREE !!! I wish the Republicans would re-think many of their policies! user1 No I definitely think that housing prices need to stop right just stop being raised. I feel bad for those

Do you think our economy will

5 years?

user1

people who are just starting off trying to purchase a new home. I think there might be recession but I don't think it'll be a total crash user2