Hello. In my opinion, Republicans are more hypocritical and there are many reasons. user1

I believe most politicians are hypocritical at times, but Republicans have shown themselves to be blatantly and consistently hypocritical.

user2

I 100% agree with you. For example, they say they are helping the people, when, in fact, they are geared towards helping big business and those already wealthy. user1 control. They want basically unlimited access to guns, but girls and women must be restricted from controlling their own bodies. They don't care really about children's lives with their attitudes toward guns and capital punishement, but they claim they want to protect the "unborn." user2 They fought against giving help to

One example is abortion and gun people during the Pandemic, which, to me, shows a blatant disrespect for those in need and they are not far-sighted but short sighted. user1

My feelings about the abortion issue, Republicans are saying they want the right to life, however, they are trying to regulate women. Also, when the child is born, they then do not even want to help feed the child, so how is that a right to life? user1 Yes, and they also fought against helping 9/11 first responders. They claim to be pro-life, but it's just an expedient argument to make for their base. user2 They pander and they seem to always want to blame someone user2 I agree with you. Also, if action had been taken sooner regarding the Pandemic, things would not have gotten as horrifically tragic.

else--Democrats usually--for all the problems plaguing our society.

Yes, they do blame others. How about the Capitol Riot? A prime example of going against everything our country stands for. Treason, really. user1

user1

for the next pandemic, which is inevitable. user2 Yes very true. user1

I agree about the Jan. 6 issue. It's unbelievable to me how they still believe in the "Big Lie."

user2

That's true about the pandemic. They're still fighting funding for additional help and preparations

It's amazing to me that they will stand on their front lawn with guns or show up to protest without > masks during the pandemic endangering others and hold > > right to life.

rallies all the while proclaiming a user1 Yes the 'big lie'. They are hypocritical. user1 I have a hard time understanding the effect Trump has on them. I guess privately they can't stand and lies. That's the essence of him, but they promote his agenda

user2

user2

bear that out.

hypocritical.

user2

Yes. He really is a monster and yet they capitalize on his popularity to those who believe in conspiracies. user1 It is appealing to the darker side of

He is the epitome of stirring up hatred in our country while at the same time proclaiming to be for it. user1 human nature. I think history will user1 Imagine lying about our election process, a process so sacred, just because he lost (Trump).

Yes, definitely, I feel history will look on this as a dark time and things will be sorted out more

I also wonder about the fate of the families who crossed the border during the Trump years and have vet to be reunited with their children. Again, a hypocritical stance on "right to life" and protection of children.

Yes!

clearly.

user1

user1