I think Democrats and Republicans can be equally hypocritical
user1

Each group has their own opinions and they think that they're right. I think there are multiple solutions to a problem and neither is more correct than the other.
user1

I agree. I think democrats are often too tied up with trying pleasing everyone to get anything real done.
user2

I think that both sides have an issue of only seeing their own side and ignoring other perspectives.
user2

I agree, if both parties could put their differences aside and work together, I think a lot more could get done.
user1

A lot of the time politics seems like spectating a team sport rather than working towards what's best for the people.
user2

I agree
user1